Plain View Press, LLC, 2007. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Adrienne Rich chose Cervine s poem The Jeweled Net of Indra as the winner of the 2005 National Writers Union contest, as well as his poem Holography for Honorable Mention. She comments that each has a fine sense both of language and the interconnectedness of human lives that for me is at the heart of poetry. In the great fields of his country-not just the U.S. but the country of the heart, the country of poetry-Dane Cervine sits with and questions what is unfathomable but must be lived anyway. I admire his faith in poetry. I admire his demand that it serve us. His lyrical and image-rich poems help light the way. They shorten the distance between us. Patrice Vecchione, author of Writing and the Spiritual Life: Finding Your Voice by Looking Within The Jeweled Net of Indra is itself a jewel, an antidote to the illusion that any of us stands alone. A testimony as to how we are all of us consciousness and inextricably linked. A change in one gem is reflected in all the others. I go for truth, I go for beauty. Dane Cervine s Jeweled Net of Indra has them both. Robert Sward, author of Collected Poems 1957-2004 Poetry should matter, Dane Cervine writes in The Jeweled Net of Indra, a volume which tackles some of the most difficult and urgent subjects of our day: war, poverty, greed, alienation, the threats to our environment. These are poems rooted in commitment, caring, and a vision that comprehends our deep interconnectedness--poems that matter. Ellen Bass, author of Mules of Love.
