

The Architect and Engineer, Vol. 82: July December, 1925 (Classic Reprint) (Paperback)

By Architect and Engineer Inc

Forgotten Books, 2018. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from The Architect and Engineer, Vol. 82: July December, 1925 The entrance is placed in a large arched niche which runs up through the first three stories. It is marked by a very interesting group which tells the story Of the power industry and forms a rich decoration at the central point. The decorative interest and form of this central feature is carried around the building by an arcade running through the first two stories, each arch being decorated by the head Of a Mountain sheep, reminiscent of the high mountains and snow fields, the source of the water power on which this industry is based. The heavy band above marks the division between base and the main shaft of the building, just as the band at the top of the Shaft marks the division between the base and the crowning motive. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. Find more at This book is a reproduction of an important historical work. Forgotten Books uses state-of-the-art technology to digitally reconstruct the work, preserving the original...

READ ONLINE
[1.02 MB]

Reviews

Complete guide! Its such a good go through. It is rally fascinating throug reading period of time. Its been written in an extremely basic way and is particularly only after i finished reading through this publication through which really changed me, change the way i really believe.

-- Mrs. Macy Stehr

It in a single of the most popular publication. It is loaded with wisdom and knowledge I am effortlessly will get a delight of studying a published book.

-- Aisha Swift