Radio Man [Illustrated]

By Balfe, Brendan

Gill & Macmillan Ltd, 2007. Hardcover with dust jacket. Condition: BRAND NEW. Since 1964, one voice on Irish radio has been synonymous with everything from pop shows and documentaries to comedy programmes and symphony concerts. The voice is that of Brendan Balfe, who in 1964 at the age of eighteen became Ireland's youngest-ever radio announcer. In the years since he has worked with some of the most illustrious names in Irish broadcasting - Mike Murphy, Gay Byrne, Terry Wogan, Larry Gogan, John McColgan, Twink and Pat Kenny, to name but a few. His career parallels the major developments in Irish broadcasting, from the GPO studios to the high tech environment of RTE Radio and Television in Montrose. But it is Brendan's stories that are unique. His recollections of the cast of characters in the studios - the announcers, the actors, the presenters, the technicians, the poets, the eccentrics - provide fascinating insight into the people behind the voices. In this memoir Brendan reveals what his years of broadcasting have really been like. From taking a worse-for-wear announcer off the air and having to substitute for him without script or running order, to breaking a record with the twelve-hour non-stop coverage of...

Reviews

I just began reading this pdf. It is actually written in straightforward words instead of hard to understand. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.
