Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The American Review of Reviews Congress has been in continuous session for fifteen months. It was hoped that the present term might come to an end early in July, but the prospects of adjournment were not very definite when these pages were closed for the press late in June. President Wilson was firmly determined to secure the passage of certain pending bills, especially those to establish a federal trade commission and to provide further regulation for industrial corporations of monopolistic tendency. In a series of paragraphs on later pages in these comments will be found an explanation of the so-called trust bills as they have passed through the House of Representatives, undergone modification in the Senate, and reached the stage of discussion and final debate, on the Senate floor. There has been a great difference of opinion in the country as to the desirability of trying to force the enactment of these measures in the present session. In the middle of June, the President undertook to strengthen his supporters in Congress, and to weaken and discredit his critics and opponents, by showing that a part at least of the agitation against the pending trust bills had been worked up by special interests through circular letters and concerted efforts in the newspaper press, and did not therefore represent a genuine public opinion. President Wilson is a hard and resolute fighter, of inflexible will power and intense concentration. He had fought his tariff battle to a finish, and had disconcerted much of the opposition, as will be remembered, by making bold and direct charges against lobbyists. Undoubtedly the investigation that followed has had great value in clearing...
