Day told Edward he had a very bad night, mamma, said Mary; and Dr. Vernon had seen him twice to-day. I thought Edward seemed very unhappy about it We must not wait for him longer, said Mrs. Montague; but, instead of taking the text we had intended, we will read the lessons for the evening service. It is the 3rd Sunday in Advent; the lessons are 26th ch. of Isaiah and 3rd ch. of 2nd Peter. The reading was just finished, when a hurried step was heard on the stairs, a pause at the door, as if for breath, and Edward entered. His face was flushed, and to the anxious eyes raised to his, traces of tears were visible. I am so sorry, mamma, he began. So that you can explain your absence satisfactorily, my dear, I shall forgive you this once, answered Mrs. Montague. By and-by you shall tell me how you came to be so late. Now open your Bible at the 26th ch. of Isaiah. I have deferred the consideration of my text until next Sunday, two of my party being absent Now I will read the first four verses to you. The 3rd and 4th are well calculated to calm any excitement, and still all our fears, Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, or, as the margin says, in peace, peace, whose mind is stayed on thee; because he trusteth in thee. Trust ye in the Lord for ever: for...
