A really wonderful book with perfect and lucid information. I actually have study and i am sure that i am going to gonna read through once more yet again in the future. I am pleased to explain how this is actually the finest ebook we have study inside my personal daily life and might be he finest book for at any time.

Bibliogov, United States, 2012. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 246 x 189 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .AstroPower is developing a manufacturing process for Silicon-Film(TM) solar cell production under an NREL-administered Photovoltaic Manufacturing Technology (PVMaT) cost-share program. This document reports on results from the second phase of a three-phase effort. Progress is reported on the development of new procedures and equipment for in-line wet chemical processes, sheet fabrication, solar cell processing, and module assembly. Future concepts and goals for the Silicon-Film(TM) process are also discussed. A major technical goal of this effort is the elimination of batch production processes in AstroPower s solar cell process. New processes are being developed that can accommodate large-area Silicon-Film(TM) planks in an in-line, continuous manner. During Phase II of this program, an in-line chemical etching system for removing diffusion oxides was specified, procured, and installed. Operation of this system during Phase III of this program is expected to validate the in-line approach and will provide valuable information for use in the design of a second, and more challenging, in-line etch system. Significant progress was made during this reporting period in the development of new screenprinting ink formulations for both the front and back metallization of Silicon-Film(TM) solar cells. Cost reductions and efficiency improvements were achieved as a result of these efforts. Progress was made in the design of a new Silicon-Film(TM) plank machine, as well as in improved processes to fabricate this material into cost-effective and efficient solar cells. Additionally, a new large-area module concept was developed and prototyped during this phase of the PVMaT program.
