Forgotten Books, 2018. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from The End of the Irrepressible Conflict It was in 1820, then, that the national deviation began. We have continued ever since the divergent course so inconsiderately entered, until at last we have reached a point, where, amid confusion, bewilderment, and mutual recrimination, it seems alike impossible to go forward or to return. We have added territory after territory, and region after region with the customary boldness of feebly resisted conquerors, not merely neglecting to keep slavery out of our new possessions, but actually removing all the barriers against it which we found standing at the time of the conquest. In doing this we have defied the moral opinions of mankind, overturned the laws and systems of our fathers, and dishonored their memories by declaring that the unequalled and glorious Constitution which they gave us, carries with it, as it attends our eagles, not freedom and personal rights to the oppressed, but slavery and a hateful and baleful commerce in slaves, wherever we win a conquest by sea or land over the whole habitable globe. Mr. Seward's speech is quite long, but almost the whole pith and marrow of it may be found in the extracts above given.
