THE PERIMETER OR CAMPIMETER. This instrument is for the purpose of mapping out the visual or retinal field. The essential principle is the same in every make of instrument. While the patient fixes a central fixation point, a small test-object is moved either from the periphery of an arc toward this central point or from the central point toward the periphery. The place where the test object, being thus moved, comes into the patients indirect vision, or passes out of vision, marks the limit of the retinal field in that meridian. The test is repeated in every meridian, successively, thus giving a contour of the retinal field. The chief differences between campimeters is that, whereas the older forms are monocular, the later models are binocular or stereoscopic. Standard Registering Perimeter. f.
