FIRE-MAKING APPARATUS IN THE U. S. NATIONAL MUSEUM (CLASSIC REPRINT) (PAPERBACK)DOWNLOAD

Forgotten Books, United States, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Fire-Making Apparatus in the U. S. National Museum Mr. Schoolcraft is not to blame for this state of affairs; in those days illustrations were not ethnological, they were padding gotten up by the artist. Nowhere in his great work does Mr. Schoolcraft describe either the Dacota or Iroquois drill. Among the northern Indians in central and northern Canada, however, the bow is used. Sir Daniel Wilson, in his work on Prehistoric Man, notes that the Red Indians of Canada use the drill bow. In August, 1888, at the meet ing of the American association, at Toronto, he gave an account of the facility with which these Indians make fire. He said that at Nipissing, on the north shore of Lake Superior, while he was traveling in a pour ing rain, and not having the means wherewith to light a fire, an Indian volunteered to light one. He searched around for a pine knot and for tinder, rubbed up the soft inner bark of the birch between the hands, got a stick from a sheltered place, made a socket in the knot and another piece of wood for a rest for the drill, tied a thong to a piece of a branch for a bow. He put the tinder ih. The hole and rested his breast on the drill and revolved it with the bow and quickly made fire.
