Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .This fictional story comes from reading of the horrors of what happened in the city of Rotherham.what happened-and according to some, still happening, and still on an industrial scale, and not just Rotherham but other UK cities and throughout much of Western Europe. In this, Book 7 of the Daughters human trafficking series, Emma Forbes (now 22) is the continuing main character throughout the series. Her little foster sister, Fayanne, now 11 (Book 4) has taken up with Facebook (which Emma has not, not seriously at least) and begins reading of the plight of the many young girls of the UK, and brings it to Emma s attention, and asks, Isn t this what you and the others do? Yes. So the two of them look further into it and Emma decides to go far from home to a foreign land and try to help. Emma will share the viewpoint in this story with two other young girls, Nadia and Hannah. Nadia, 14, is based on a video narrated by a British girl who survived nearly unbelievable horrors first from a close relative and then the Muslim grooming for prostitution gangs. Hannah, 18, is based on an article describing why British girls take up with, marry Muslim men, and join the Islamic religion.all to escape the party scene.
