If it is not shocked, it should be gathered in October, leaving the husks on the stalks. There is no advantage in storing the ears with the shucks on, as they afford nesting-places for mice, and require too much room. The average yield of my corn for the last five years on bottom land has been 40 bushels per acre. The cost of raising it is 15c. per bushel, or $6 per acre. The ruling price per bushel at our nearest market in December and June each year has been as follows: In 1876, in December 25c.; in 1877, in December 22c, in June 50c.; in 1878, in December 23c, in June 25c; in 1879, in December 21c, in June 30c; in 1880, in December 22c, in...
