By Jason Whitman

Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Hard Times: A Discourse, Delivered in the Second Unitarian Church, Portland, Sunday, December 31, 1837 We hailed the commencement of the year, my friends, from these sacred places, with songs of joy and of hope. So, from these same sacred places, we are this day to bid the year adieu, in songs of gratitude and of praise. The associations, connected with this day, have brought forcibly to my mind the subject, upon which I addressed you at the commencement of the year. That subject, you will remember, was The Hard Times. And, my friends, you stand in no need of being informed by me, that the hard times still continue. Let this subject then, the hard times, which was the theme of my discourse on the morning of the first, be the theme of my discourse on this, the morning of the last day of the year eighteen hundred and thirty seven. And let the same passage of scripture, which served as a motto on the former occasion, be the guide of our thoughts...
