As a master of the sonnet form he ranks with Sidney, Drayton and Shakespeare; his prose is less well known. Drummond was born in 1585 at Hawthornden, his father s house overlooking the Vale of the North Esk. His is one of a small group of names, ruggedly termed autochthonal but peculiarly pleasant to the ear, whose possessors one likes to think were as lovely and pleasant in their lives. It includes Sir Thomas Browne of Norwich, Lord Herbert of Cherbury, and a few others. As country Scotsmen are so generally known among themselves by their home names Drummond s inclusion in the group is perhaps less remarkable, but with all is associated something of staid constancy, some suggestion of the simple and pardon able pride of home.
