As these shields can be raised to any desired point, and the temperature and rate of flow of the entering water can be regulated at will, any desired rate of absorption from 1 to 250 calories per hour, its maximum rate, can be realized. 4. Determining the Temperature of the Calorimeter. In order to measure not only the total amount of heat evolved by the subject, but also the rate at any and all times, it is necessary to keep the interior temperature of the calorimeter very nearly constant, and also to measure the small changes in temperature which may occur. For this purpose we have mounted six coils of No. 32 copper wire near the walls of the chamber, connected them...
