Our boat did not return; we sent our pinnace with the men armed, to see what was the occasion of the yawl's stay; for we were afraid that the Spaniards had a garrison there, and might have seized them. We put out a signal for our boat, and the Duchess showed a French ensign. Immediately our pinnace returned from the shore, and brought abundance of cray-fish, with a man clothed in goats skins, who looked wilder than the first owners of them. He had been on the island four Tears and four months, being left there by Captain Slradling in the Cinque-ports; his name was Albxandbb Selkirk, a Scotchman, who had been master of the Cinque-ports, a ship that came here last with Captain Damnier, who told me that this was the best man in her. I immediately agreed with him to be a mate on board our shin: It was he that made the fire last night when he saw our ships, which he judged to be English. During his stay here, he saw several ships pass by. but only two came to anchor. As he went to view them, he found them to be Spaniards, and retired from them, upon which they shot at him: Had they been French he would have submitted; but chose to risk his dying alone on the island, rather than fall into the hands of Spaniards in these parts; because he...
