

The Great Purple Hoo-Ha: A Comedy of Perception Part I

By Philip H Farber

Mandrake of Oxford. Paperback. Condition: New. 205 pages. Joe had a drinking problem. The possible demise of his television talkshow and the end of his career had tilted a very big bottle of OldMystery into his guts. Now he was having trouble telling where thehallucinations ended and reality began. Had the mysterious young manwith the cat - whom nobody else could see - really granted him a magical wish for fame and fortune Were the sex-obsessed cultists he wasinvestigating on the show really bringing on the End of the World Where did the sentient cream-filled pastries come from Who was the MostDisgusting Rock Star Ever And, more importantly, would Joe ever get his new girlfriend, the goddess, into bedFrom a magicko-religious point of view Id say The Great Purple Hoo-Ha proves that changing Perception is the Great Work. From a readers perspective Id say, Its like Stranger in a Strange Land except much funnier and with hotter sex. From a friends perspective Id say, Dude, you should buy this! -- Don Webb, author of Aleister Crowley: The Fire and the Force and Uncle Setnaks Essential Guide to the Left Hand Path As blatant propaganda, The Great Purple Hoo-Ha is funnier...

Reviews

This pdf is definitely not easy to get started on studying but quite entertaining to read through. I am quite late in start reading this one, but better then never. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.
