

Ah There; Pickings from Lobby Chatter in the Cincinnati Enquirer

By Al Thayer

Rarebooksclub.com, United States, 2012. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 246 x 189 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1894 Excerpt: .in Frisco. He claims he hasn't changed his business, as he was a conductor when he played first violin. Mrs. Shaw, the whistler-- Look here, Mr. Manager, I want my money. Manager-- Oh, you will have to whistle for your salary. Ned Buckley was out, for a time this season, playing Paul Kauvar. In the company was a very tart leading lady, and some one asked Ned where he got her. She came with the manuscript, said Ned. Nick Roberts tells me that while playing his Humpty Dumpty company in a Texas town, and during the course of the pantomime, the audience and actors were astonished by a man yelling out, Louder. He proved to be deaf. Hugh Dougherty says that he once asked an impecunious acquaintance Why don't you get shaved? Haven't you got the price? The party in need of the...

READ ONLINE
[9.71 MB]

Reviews

Basically no phrases to clarify. It really is really fascinating through reading time. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.

-- Anabel Zemplak

This ebook is worth purchasing. It is written in straightforward words and not hard to understand. You will not feel monotony at any time of your respective time (that's what catalogs are for about in the event you ask me).

-- Eileen Kling I