MEMORIES OF SANTA CLAUS: LOUIS FINNEGAN

Then and Now Media. Paperback. Condition: New. 238 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 0.6in. Louis Finnegan was a bright, imaginative boy who grew up in Holiday Falls, Ohio. He loved airplanes. Santa was his friend. On Christmas Eve in 1927, when he was seven years old, Louis stayed up and waited for Santa. He hid behind a chair in his living room and watched as Santa sat down to sip eggnog and nibble on a cookie. Santa rocked slowly. Pretty soon, Louis heard soft breathing and then a snort. The rocking chair stopped moving, and Santa began to snore. He was asleep! Louis worried about what to do. But he summoned his courage and awakened the old elf. As Santa often said later, Louis saved Christmas. A lifelong friendship began that night. Before long, Louis's sister, Annie; his brother, Michael; and their best friends, Maureen and Colleen Bailey, also became friends with Santa and his elves. Santa's personal assistant, Henry, was a special friend and helped them keep in touch with Mr. Claus. A magical music box that Santa gave to Louis for his birthday in 1928 let him and his friends visit Santa at the North Pole whenever they wanted. Secrets don't last long in small towns. Santa's friendship with Louis and his friends soon became common knowledge, not only at the Holiday Falls School, but around the town. When the Great Depression of the 1930s put adults out of work and left their families poor and hungry, Louis and his friends were inspired by Santa's kindness and generosity. What started as a small club to help a few poor families soon included the town's residents in helping poor children and their families, not only at Christmas, but all year long. Even as a child, Louis loved airplanes and...
