Excerpt: . . . DESCRIPTION OF SPECIES. ANNELIDA CONTTLARIDE. CONTTLARIA Miller. CONULARIA sp. Plate VI, figure 8. Only two species of Conularia have been described from our upper Carboniferous rocks, C. roeperi and C. crustula, and the present form is much more similar to the latter than to the former species. It is represented in our collections by but a single specimen, which, when complete, may have had a length of about 25 mm. The cross section is square and the diameter at the larger end about 9 mm. The costae occur 11 in 5 mm. This species differs from C. crustula in being more gradually expanding and in having somewhat more closely arranged costae. It is therefore probably new, but the introduction of a new name seems hardly justified at present, because some important characters, such as the sculpture or crenulations on the costae are unknown, not being shown in our specimen.
