ADDRESS AT THE DEDICATION OF THE DEXTER MEMORIAL TOWN HALL, CHARLTON, MASS (CLASSIC REPRINT) (PAPERBACK)

Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Address at the Dedication of the Dexter Memorial Town Hall, Charlton, Mass Governor Bradford has told of the Plymouth Pilgrims a graphic story Of death and misery, most ap palling to the present living, all of which had been anticipated before the company started on their journey in search of civil and religious liberty, and in contemplation of which those intrepid spirits said: It is not with us as with other men, whom small things can discourage, or small discontentments cause to wish themselves at home again. Sickness and exposure had the first season taken one-half the Plymouth Pilgrims, and yet not one of the survivors returned with the Ship in the spring. The hearts of the remaining living beat strong with a great purpose, like pulse of ocean tide, impelled by unknown but resistless force to work out Nature s purpose. The settlement of New England was but an extension of Plymouth s people and those of like fibre and purpose. The hills of Massachusetts became sites Of towns and hamlets, cleared by tireless industry, de fended by bravery valiant as Caesar s, faithful as Leonidas . Church, town meeting, and school were the three primal Objects of public concern wherever settlements were established. Life itself was not dearer to those people than were these three institutions in which their most earnest interest centered, and which were justly thought to constitute the corner-stone, arch key and crowning protection of their government structure.
