Assignment oi Future Wages and Discharge in Bankruptcy. The supreme court of Illinois says (Mallin vs. Venham, 70 Northeastern Reporter, 564) that the authorities are ample and conclusive to the effect that an assignment of wages to be earned in the future, under an existing employment, is valid. This precise question has frequently been passed upon by the courts of the different states and of England, and, so far as this court is advised, the courts of last resort have, without exception, upheld such contracts, where they have been for 21 valuable consideration and untaintcd with fraud. The authorities are to the effect that it is not necessary that there be an express hiring for a. definite time, but the existence of the employment at the time of the assignment is sutlicient. Nor does the court consider such an assignment against public policy. It says that it cannot scc that there is anything intrinsically vicious in an assignment of wages. The assignor in such case simply draws upon his future prospects to supply present needs, which may be of the most urgent and pressing character. There is no law in this state to prevent a person...
