Death from a Distance and the Birth of a Humane Universe: Human Evolution, Behavior, History, and Your Future (Paperback)

By Joanne Souza, Paul M Bingham

Booksurge Publishing, United States, 2009. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . A new biological theory of human uniqueness and theory of everything based in human evolution. Paul M. Bingham Joanne Souza share the products of more than a decades research into our evolutionary history. Humans communicate, cooperate, reason, coerce, influence in specific ways that separate us from all other species. Knowledge of how this originally came to be in the human species is crucial to understanding our current social, economic and political behavior. Death from a Distance and the Birth of a Humane Universe reads like a gripping novel, while delivering an answer to Darwin s unanswered question; how did humans become unique? The authors, one a molecular evolutionary biologist and the other a research psychologist, dedicated to the evolutionary logic of human social behavior, have taken us beyond the fundamental concepts of biology into a theory that merges the natural social sciences. You will gain striking new insights into our evolutionary origins, our innate sexual behavior (yes, both monogamous and promiscuous), our unprecedented approach to childrearing, our language and brain evolution, and our current social/political/economic behaviors. Questions like what caused the...
