Excerpt from Student Hand Book: 1941-1942 The chief problem that confronts you during registration is the planning of your course of study. Before you meet the faculty advisor and administrative officers who will assist you, study the requirements in the various curricula offered (an outline of these will be given to you) and decide upon a tentative combination of courses you would like to take. Appraise yourself, your motives in coming to college, your needs and desires. This preliminary self examination will give you something definite for your conference with the advisor. Avoid making your course too narrow. The aim of the first year is to give each individual a balanced distribution among the various fields of thought.
