

Reflection of EthnoScienceStudy On The Abujh Maria

By S. Dasgupta

Mittal Publications, New Delhi, 2005. N.A. Book Condition: New. xvi + 107 + Illustrationspp Science is the study to explain the relationship between cause and effect and this relationship is explained through induction and deduction of logical interpretation. Each and every indigenous community possesses a specific wisdom within a distinct domain in which their sustenance activities are limited and this great heritage of folk knowledge clearly reflects a scientific base which may be termed as ethno-science. The present treatise is on the Abujh Maria, a primitive tribal group of Bastar district of Chhattisgarh, who are shifting hill cultivators and are confined shifting hill cultivators and are confined in a particular territory known as Abujhmarh. The life and culture of the Abujh Marias are also cherished under the lap of forest environment. Behind all shadows of beliefs, some kind of concept of science is reflected which in turn controls their livelihood and surrounding niche. With this wisdom they not only exploit the natural resources but also conserve and preserve their bio-diversity. The close co-relationship has been highlighted between their terrestrial set-up and ceestial world which ultimately has an impact on their subsistence economy and eventually it leads to restrict their family...
